

OVERVIEW OF THE ETN

The return on the ETNs is linked to the performance of the Alerian MLP Index® (the “Index”) as measured by its volume-weighted average performance (“VWAP”) level, and to cash distributions on its components. The ETNs may pay a variable quarterly coupon based on cash distributions on the components of the Index, subject to the deduction of an investor fee of 0.85% per annum that accrues each day. If cash distributions on the components of the Index are less than the investor fee accrued, the shortfall will be carried forward and offset against future coupon payments. The payment on the ETNs at maturity or upon early repurchase or redemption is based on the VWAP level of the Index over a five-day Measurement Period, together with any coupon payment, subject to the deduction of any remaining investor fee shortfall. The VWAP level reflects the volume-weighted average prices of the components of the Index.

OVERVIEW OF THE ALERIAN MLP INDEX®

4. “Coupon Amount per Note” refers to the term as defined in the relevant pricing supplement for the ETNs. The coupons are based on the cash distributions, if any, paid on the underlying MLPs, less the Accrued Investor Fee. The coupons are variable and may be zero. The “Accrued Investor Fee” for a given coupon period, as more fully described in the relevant pricing supplement, represents an amount equal to the Investor Fee of 0.85% per annum accrued for that coupon period multiplied by the principal amount, as adjusted by the volume-weighted average performance of the Index as of the Index Business Day prior to the date of determination, plus the aggregate amounts, if any, by which the previous Accrued Investor Fees have exceeded the cash distributions, if any, made by the underlying MLPs.

5. “Current Yield” equals the current Coupon Amount annualized and divided by the relevant closing price of the ETNs, rounded to one decimal place for ease of analysis.
